Section C*[25 marks][Time suggested: 50 minutes]*

Questions 26-31 are based on the following passage which is about the writer's journey to Poon Hill.

- 1 Shangri-La is a place surrounded by snow-capped mountains where people live peacefully to a hundred years. The air is supposed to be pure with flowers everywhere. This was not so in Kathmandu, the capital of Nepal. The town was dusty with outdated motor vehicles spewing white smoke from inefficient engines. I was on my way to the base camp of Annapurna, a mountain of Nepal. 5
- 2 The next day, I proceeded to Pokara, the starting point of the trek. The start of the journey was behind some shacks at the side of a shallow ravine where some Tibetan ladies were selling trinkets to tourist. Once the trekking started it was like a dream come true. The air was very pure because there were no motor vehicles of any kind except helicopters which flew overhead. 10
- 3 We crossed suspension bridges like the ones in Indiana Jones movies. The trek was uphill all the time with little respite. Now and then we came to broad flat ledges but after that it was climbing up and up again. I took my time and admired the snow-capped mountains and the rustic villages I passed through. All the time I was conscious of the fresh air I was breathing in. It was invigorating, mostly because it had always been my dream to trek the foothills of the Himalayas. 15
- 4 I had chosen the right season- the rains had stopped and the rhododendrons which grew in bushes and trees were in full bloom. Walking through a forest of rhododendrons was more like the Shangri-La I had dreamed of. Moss hung from the branches of these century-old trees. As I sat down to appreciate the vista which spread before me, I heard the porter whistling as he carried my heavy bag past me. 20
- 5 Nights were spent in little huts along the trek. It was cold and bathing was a problem except in rest lodges which had hot water. They used solar power and since the sun was hardly out when I was there, hot water was in short supply. Food was interesting. It was mainly western food – apple pies and pizzas were common. 25
- 6 At Chomron, I had to wake up at 4 am and walked up Poon Hill in the dark. I arrived at the summit just as the sun was rising. If there had been music, it would have been my idea of heaven – clean clear air, cold breeze and the changing colours of the mountain ranges which surrounded the summit. The panoramic view was astounding as the sun rose and showed clearly each peak with each passing minute. 30

There were almost hundred trekkers there but their conversation was quiet. Somehow sound did not carry well in the chilly rarefied air.

7 All too soon the sun became too hot and I had to descent. I rested in Chomron for another night. When I made my final walk to the base camp of Annapurna, I met some trekkers who had to stay the night at the lodge. Some were suffering from 35 mountain sickness. Snow began to fall as I crossed small glaciers where a slip meant sliding down the valley down below.

8 The base camp loomed through the falling snow one kilometre in front. The climb was steep. It took more than one hour to reach it. What a feeling of success I had when I took the final step into the lodge of the base camp. 40

SECTION D*[20 marks][Time suggested: 35 minutes]32 Read the poem and answer the questions that follow.THE LIVING PHOTOGRAPH

My small grandmother is tall there,
 straight-back, white broderie anglaise shirt,
 pleated skirt, flat shoes, grey bun,
 a kind, old smile round her eyes,
 Her big hand holds mine,
 white hand in black hand.
 Her sharp blue eyes look her own death in the eye.

It was true after all; that look.
 My tall grandmother became small.
 Her back round and hunched.
 Her soup forgot to boil.
 She went to the awful place grandmothers go.
 Somewhere unknown, unthinkable.

But there she is still,
 in the photo with me at three,
 the crinkled smile is still living, breathing.
